

Motivation. Inspiration. Innovation.

John Amaechi, where anecdote meets research...

John Amaechi is a psychologist, New York Times best-selling Author, retired NBA basketball star and social entrepreneur working in both the US and the Europe. His work is mostly in industrial/organisational settings with medium to large institutions: business, educational and philanthropic, to help them maximise their human capital.

John is an accomplished motivational speaker with experience addressing a diverse cross-section of clients, including an impressive list of fortune 500 corporations, international charities and world-class educational institutions, throughout Great Britain, Europe and the United States. He has also appeared on such shows as Richard & Judy, The Daily Show with Jon Stewart, Real Time with Bill Maher, Oprah and many more speaking on issues of diversity and inclusion.

John has extensive expertise in keynote and motivational speaking, conference chairmanship and workshop administration. He is able to set and maintain tone, as well as use wit, warmth and insight to link the individual facets of any programme. His demeanour and experience allow for an inspiring, entertaining and unforgettable interaction.

He also relishes the challenge of enhancing executive performance on a one-to-one basis. Consulting as an executive advisor, working alongside leaders to analyse strategy, facilitate intra-organisational communication and highlight and tackle problems that diminish workplace harmony and performance.

---

“I sat down with an ex-basketball player, and by the time it was over I felt like I had been sitting with a statesman.”

John Amaechi spoke at our national sales meeting and even though sales people are notorious for being quite cynical and hard to impress, John had an amazing impact on us all! He is a very interesting and thought provoking person and left us all feeling very motivated. His honesty and integrity was a breath of fresh air!

~Mary Thorpe, Toshiba UK

---

The process of engaging John Amaechi to speak at our day long event was smooth and professional from start to finish. His prep package allowed us to provide detailed context on the event and its goals. John's presentation was dynamic, engaging, provoked discussion and was obviously tailored to the topics and goals we had set for the event. Our chapter decided to invite John to speak based on his glowing reviews from a previous event at a sister company and he exceeded our high expectations making our event the most successful for our ERG chapter for the year.

~Todd Koser, Johnson and Johnson

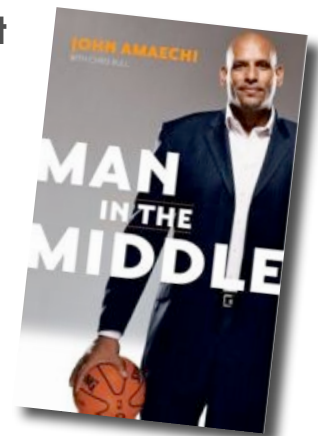

---

Easily the best of the diversity presentations I have attended ever since Diversity Week was launched. John was engaging, interesting, and very relevant. And he was more than simply a 'diversity candidate' talking of his experiences, rather he addressed the topic in a thoughtful and thought-provoking way.

~Anne Marie Salamy, Global Leadership & Diversity team, Goldman Sachs

It was unforgettable, it was inspirational, he was in tune with the room and what he said was pitched at exactly the right level for his audience - everyone was hanging on his words. It felt like he was speaking to each of one of us personally.

~Principal, North Westminster School

---

John is a significant and powerful speaker and chairperson, and I won't want to book anymore conferences without first checking his availability to work with me!

~Sue Woolmore, Public Policy Advisor, NSPCC

We miss John here already! I think he underestimates how powerful, bright and open he is in a way that resonates with so many. I am tremendously pleased with what he brought to this community and "how" he brought it.

~Lynn Sullivan MS Ed., Dean of Community Affairs, King Low-Heywood Thomas School

To check John's availability, please send an email to:

enquiries@amaechiperformance.com